- Heading design, I developed my core ideas to build up the stories around sketches, 3 D mock-ups and material experimentation.
- I worked closely with Frances Scorah to develop the ranges, travelling to Italy to attend tradeshow, where I selected materials and components, worked with model makers to develop lasts and heels and presented designs to factories.
- Travelling internationally, I established relationships with manufacturers in Italy, Spain and China.
- I approved details, materials and options of selling and press sample ranges.
- Working with the factories and the production manager, I verified and agreed prototypes, oversaw fit tests and implemented any changes.
- I visited factories during production to check quality and finish, ensuring standards were met.
- Contributing to the marketing of the brand, I worked with the team to influence the direction of the imagery and design of the seasonal look books.
